

CHINESE HOSPITAL

845 JACKSON STREET, SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94133

Media Contact:

Mr. YoungSoo Cho

Youngsooc@chasf.org

415-955-8804

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Historical Grand Opening of Chinese Hospital New Patient Tower

SAN FRANCISCO, CA (April 18, 11:00am) Ninety-one years to the day, San Francisco's Chinese Hospital celebrated the grand opening of its replacement hospital today.

Respecting its Chinese-American traditions, the festivities included Buddhist and Catholic blessings, Lion Dancing and Beach Blanket Babylon performances, capped off with a thunderous roar of firecrackers that followed the ribbon cutting. The proceedings were led with remarks by two mayors (Honorable Mayor Edwin Lee and former Mayor Willie Brown), the district supervisor (Aaron Peskin), and members of Chinese Hospital Association Board of Trustees as well as hospital's leadership. The ceremony concluded with guided tours for hundreds of people from the community who eagerly awaited the pride of Chinatown to open its doors.

The 100,000 square foot, 8-story new patient tower was built from ground-up on the same footprint as the original 1925 structure. The new tower includes 88 total patient beds, four surgical units and new 23-bed Skilled Nursing Unit. The state-of-the-art diagnostic imaging department will house all new equipment including 64-detector CT Scanner, Ultrasound, and a MRI to list but a few.

The design of the hospital has been careful to balance the cultural sensitivities and state-of-the-art technologies. The design and motif throughout utilizes Asian themes such as water, flower, birds and fish, each symbolizing aspects of life that provide a holistic healing environment. Technologies that make patient information and comfort have been carefully thought of. An example is the Care Board, an information reader/display that link employee ID badges to indicate name, position, and photo of the attending staff, will make patients feel assured as to the comings and goings of nursing and medical teams.

The $180 million construction cost was consisted of 1/3 hospital funds, 1/3 bond issuance, and 1/3 community donations. Of course there were important large donors without whom the funding goal would have been hard to reach. But, as the hospital's CEO, Brenda Yee reflected, an example of how the hospital touches and matters to the people of the community is when countless families who would offer $2 and $5, their daily meal budget, to the donation box.

As former San Francisco Mayor Willie Brown had reflected, 'This really is a hospital, for the community, by the community.'

CHINESE HOSPITAL

845 JACKSON STREET, SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94133

‘Let’s face it, without the community, we wouldn’t be here’ said Chinese Hospital Association board President, James Ho.

About Chinese Hospital

Chinese Hospital is a community-owned, not-for-profit organization based in San Francisco’s Chinatown. It is a unique healthcare system that has grown in geographic and ethnic diversity in its reach. It is made-up of multiple primary care clinics, outpatient centers, and a health plan to provide healthcare services throughout San Francisco and northern San Mateo County seeking quality care in today’s health care environment.

Chinese Hospital’s mission is to deliver quality health care in a cost effective way and is responsive to the community's ethnic and cultural uniqueness. It traces its roots over 100 years to 1899 when the Chinatown community opened the Tung Wah Dispensary to provide eastern and western medicines for Chinese immigrants who could not access mainstream health facilities. In 1925, the original Chinese Hospital emerged to provide fully modernized healthcare for the community.

Chinese Hospital is governed by a voluntary Board of Trustees, broadly representative of the community, and strives to assume a leadership role in all health matters.

###